Good afternoon,

I hope everyone has a wonderful Thanksgiving.

My email is to state my dissatisfaction at the current agreement reached in regards to the Microsoft anti trust case.

I feel it has been proven many times that Microsoft has abused its position as a global business giant. Even going to the extent to thumb it's nose at the government on several occasions (the latest the release of XP).

Microsoft is not bad because it's big or that it contributes significantly to PAC's. Microsoft abused its power as a multinational company. That fact was proven in the case against it. What was dismissed is the fact that Microsoft would not be broken up.

The point, I'm sure you waiting. After spending millions of dollars (or at least hundreds of thousands) of taxpayer money, we don't have a different Monopoly than we had in the beginning. Punishment? I'm sure the definition is much different than what we have just been privy to. Microsoft will continue it's run for Monopoly of the A.D.

Microsoft should be dealt a horrible blow that will not affect its workforce, but affect its opportunity to continue its horrible monopolistic ways.

Don't cower in front of the evil doers! It's not terrorism, it's business!

God Bless America! And save us from the monopoly!

PS Did I mention that XP thing?
